Management’s Discussion of Fund Performance

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

The FPA Crescent Fund – Supra Institutional Class (“Fund” or “Crescent”) gained 8.81% in the trailing six months 2024 and 16.46% in the trailing twelve months on a net basis, which includes reinvestment of all distributions. The MSCI ACWI Index and the S&P 500 Index returns for the six-month period were 11.30% and 15.29%; 19.38% and 24.56% for the trailing-twelve month period, respectively. The Fund is managed according to FPA’s Contrarian Value Strategy, which seeks to invest in companies that currently appear out of favor or undervalued but have a favorable outlook for growth, in the portfolio manager’s estimation, over 5-10 years. The portfolio managers conduct deep research into the underlying financial condition and prospects of individual companies, and only select those whose securities are offered at a “substantial discount” to the portfolio managers’ estimation of the company’s worth or intrinsic value.

TOP PERFORMANCE CONTRIBUTORS*

Holcim, a building material (largely concrete, cement, and aggregates) company has performed well over the past year. In addition to strong operating performance, management has taken several steps to return value to shareholders and improve awareness of the company’s underlying business strength, including repurchasing shares, increasing the dividend, and announcing plans to separate the company’s North American business.

Citigroup’s shares have appreciated (along with other bank stocks) from a profoundly depressed level of less than 50% of tangible book value to a modestly depressed level of 70%. We expect the company to deliver significantly improved results and sizable capital returns over the next few years.

TOP PERFORMANCE DETRACTORS*

Charter has faced challenging operating conditions that have led to its share price weakness. Competitors have been overbuilding with fiber assets and fixed wireless has proven to be meaningful. There has been concern regarding the sustainability of business derived from subsidized customers. And, the company’s near-term capital spending budget has exceeded expectations. Compounding matters, its relatively high leverage ratio adds volatility to its stock price. We look forward to the company demonstrating the competitive strength of its converged (fixed and wireless) connectivity offering, ramping down capital spending, and reaccelerating share repurchases.

CarMax is the largest independent used vehicle dealer in the US. With 245 locations and 30 years of operating experience, CarMax has built a strong brand focused on providing the best user experience for buying a used car. CarMax uses the data from its millions of vehicles purchased and sold to understand the right price to buy, recondition, and sell used vehicles, and as a result, has consistently generated an industry-leading gross profit per unit (GPU) for decades. We believe each part of CarMax’s sales proposition would be difficult for smaller independent peers to replicate, let alone the entire customer value proposition. Even Carvana, CarMax’s best-known peer, lacks:

1. The option to shop in-store or test-drive the vehicle for 24 hours before purchase.

2. CarMax’s range of finance providers.

3. CarMax’s 10-day money back guarantee (Carvana has a shorter 7-day money-back guarantee).

While a recent downturn in used vehicle sales due to the impact of higher inflation and interest rates on monthly vehicle payments has hurt CarMax’s recent volumes and market share, we believe it continues to improve the customer experience, which we think will result in increased vehicle sales volumes and market share gains within its existing store base that should drive higher profits per vehicle and improve the company’s returns on invested capital. As of year-end 2023, CarMax has ~4% of the fragmented used vehicle market, and while we don’t know exactly how big the company can ultimately grow, a good long-term yardstick is CarMax’s oldest stores, which have 10%+ market share (which is still growing).

*The information provided does not reflect all positions purchased, sold or recommended during the trailing twelve months (“TTM”). Indices are unmanaged and do not reflect any commissions, transaction costs, or fees and expenses which would be incurred by an investor purchasing the underlying securities and which would reduce the performance in an actual account. The MSCI ACWI USD Index is an unmanaged free float-adjusted market capitalization weighted index that is designed to measure the equity market performance of developed and emerging markets. The S&P 500 Index includes a representative sample of 500 hundred companies in leading industries of the U.S. economy. The Index focuses on the large-cap segment of the market, with over 80% coverage of U.S. equities, but is also considered a proxy for the total market.
